

Claims

1. A lighting device comprising a lighting element, the lighting element configured to receive control signals; a communication unit, the communication unit adapted to maintain a communicating relationship with one or more other lighting devices; a transducer; and a processor, the processor coupled to the communication unit, the lighting element, and the transducer, the processor configured to generate control signals to the lighting element.

006T60" 696E9960

Add B37